The Samsonite.com Website features a Samsonite IP copyright: “Copyright 2023 Samsonite IP Holdings S.A.R.L,” as does the Samsonite Corporate Website.

15. On information and belief, Defendant advertises, sells, and conducts business throughout the United States, including within the state of Texas and within this District. On information and belief, at all relevant times, Defendant was in the business of offering for sale and selling its bag and luggage products in the United States.

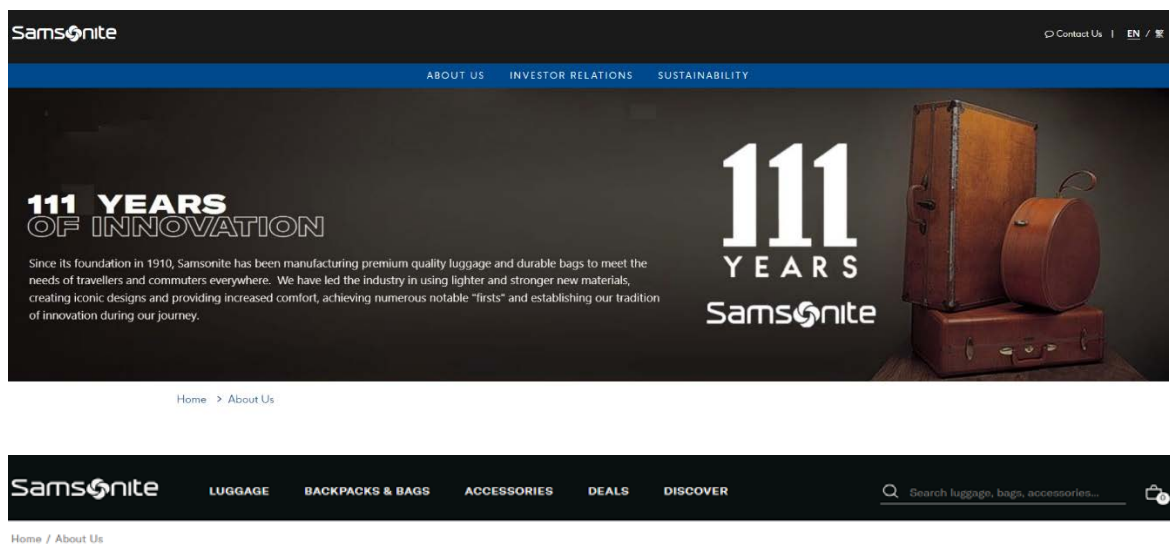

16. Defendant has and continues to infringe, contributorily infringe, and/or induce others to infringe at least claim 1 of the '071 Patent and at least claim 23 of the '138 Patent in the United States by offering for sale and selling bag and luggage products, including but not limited to the Quadrion Slim Backpack, the Quadrion Standard Backpack, and the Quadrion Messenger Bag (collectively, the “Quadrion Bags”).

17. Samsonite International directly infringes the Patents-in-Suit by selling and offering for sale, in the United States and this District, its infringing bag and luggage products through at least its Samsonite.com Website.

18. Samsonite International contributorily infringes the Patents-in-Suit by providing, including through its consolidated subsidiaries, a staple article—its infringing bag and luggage products—to (1) U.S. retailers who, in turn, sell and offer for sale the infringing products; and (2) U.S. customers who, in turn, use the infringing products.

19. Additionally, Samsonite International induces infringement of the Patents-in-Suit by U.S. retailers by providing the infringing products to customers and to retailers. Samsonite International expends significant time and resources on the design, manufacture, and quality control of its products (which it promotes as “premium-quality,” “iconic designs,” and “the latest design technology”) and the products of its consolidated subsidiaries, such that the retailers benefit from the sales and popularity of Samsonite International’s products.

20. The goodwill in the products, brands, and marks, including Samsonite, Tumi, High Sierra, ebags, and Hartmann, entices customers to purchase the products and to infringe, and the goodwill also entices retailers to sell and to offer for sale the infringing products.

21. Additionally, Samsonite International knowingly and actively encourages customers to use the products to infringe the Patents-in-Suit by providing instructions and technical support to its customers. The Samsonite.com Website instructs customers that the “[b]uilt in USB port lets you power devices on the go” “to keep you charged and stress-free” and that the “[i]ntegrated charging port allows for easy access to personal portable chargers.”

22. On information and belief, Samsonite International performs extensive market research of its competitors and competing products and gathers extensive information about its competitors and competing products in the marketplace, including patents relating to such products. Given the similarities between Samsonite International’s Quadron Bags and the ’071 and '138 Patents, the similarities between the Quadrion Bags and Plaintiff's competing products that embody the asserted claims of the '071 and '138 Patents and are marked with these patent numbers, and the patent infringement litigation, which was newsworthy and publicized by Bloomberg Law and Law360, between Plaintiff and Defendant's direct competitors Targus International LLC and Wenger S.A. surrounding similar products and involving the Patents-in-Suit,¹² Samsonite International was aware of Plaintiff's patented technology and knew or should have known that its own products practiced at least claim 1 of the '071 Patent and at least claim 23 of the '138 Patent. With this knowledge, Samsonite International continues to sell and offer to sell its infringing products and encourage customers to use the patented features of its bags/luggage.

JURISDICTION

23. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1338(a) because this action arises under the Patent Laws of the United States, 35 U.S.C. § 1 et seq.

24. Venue in this judicial district is proper under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1391(c)(3) because Defendant is not a resident of the United States.

25. This Court has personal jurisdiction over Defendant because Defendant has done business and continues to do business in Texas, marketed and promoted its products within Texas, and has committed acts of patent infringement in Texas, including but not limited to: promoting, marketing, and advertising the sale of the Quadrion Bags in Texas; using, offering to sell, and selling the Quadrion Bags in Texas; importing the Quadrion Bags into Texas; inducing others to commit infringing acts in Texas; and contributorily infringing the Patents-in-Suit by providing, including through its consolidated subsidiaries, a staple article to (1) retailers who, in turn, sell and offer for sale the infringing products in Texas; and (2) customers in Texas who, in turn, use the infringing products. On information and belief, Defendant and/or its consolidated subsidiaries operate numerous physical retail stores throughout Texas, including within this District. Defendant also sells and offers for sale its products through e-commerce channels in Texas and within this District. Thus, Defendant knowingly benefits from the availability of the Texas market for its products and intends to serve Texas residents and increase sales in Texas and within this District. Defendant purposefully directs activities at residents of this forum, and Swissdigital's claims arise out of and relate to these activities.

² In the Wenger case, this Court conducted a claim construction hearing and issued an opinion in connection with the Patents-in-Suit. See Swissdigital USA Co., Ltd. v. Wenger S.A., 6:21-cv-00453-ADA-DTG (W.D. Tex. 2021) at Dkt. Nos. 54 and 55.

26. In the alternative, this Court has personal jurisdiction over Defendant under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 4(k) even if Defendant is not subject to personal jurisdiction in any state's courts of general jurisdiction. These causes of action arise under federal law because the claims fall under 35 U.S.C. § 271. The exercise of jurisdiction over Defendant is consistent with due process because Defendant has sufficient minimum contact with the United States such that jurisdiction does not offend traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice. Defendant has purposefully directed its activities at residents of the United States through the sale of the infringing products in the United States via its Samsonite.com Website, consolidated subsidiaries, and U.S. retailers. Defendant has also purposefully availed itself of the financial benefits of the United States through its direction, supervision, and control of the use in commerce of the Samsonite trademarks, from which it derived substantial profits. These claims arise out of and relate to the sales of Defendant's infringing products in the United States, and the assertion of jurisdiction is reasonable and fair. Finally, Defendant knowingly induced retailers to sell and to offer for sale the infringing products and induced customers to use the products in an infringing manner in the United States.

COUNT ONE
INFRINGEMENT OF U.S. PATENT NO. 10,574,071

27. Plaintiff incorporates by reference the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1–26 herein.

28. Pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 271(a), Defendant has directly infringed (literally and/or under the doctrine of equivalents) at least claim 1 of the '071 Patent by designing, manufacturing, sourcing, distributing, offering for sale or use, and/or selling in the Western District of Texas and elsewhere in the United States bag and luggage products including, but not limited to, the Quadriion Bags that include a sheath for convenient charging.

29. In violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(b), Defendant has infringed (literally and/or under the doctrine of equivalents) at least claim 1 of the '071 Patent indirectly by inducing, causing, urging, encouraging, aiding, and abetting the infringement of the '071 Patent claim by third parties, including its consolidated subsidiaries, retailers, and customers.

30. Defendant has done so by affirmative acts, including, but not limited to, selling infringing products, marketing the infringing capabilities of such products, and providing instructions, technical support, and other encouragement for the use of such products. Defendant induces infringement of the Patents-in-Suit by U.S. retailers by providing the infringing products to customers and to retailers. Defendant expends significant time and resources on the design, manufacture, and quality control of its products (which it promotes as “premium-quality,” “iconic designs,” and “the latest design technology”) and the products of its consolidated subsidiaries such that the retailers benefit from the sales and popularity of Samsonite International’s products. Defendant also places its trademarks on products and maintains goodwill in the marks such that the retailers benefit from sales and popularity of Samsonite International's products and the products of its consolidated subsidiaries. The goodwill in the products, brands, and marks, including Samsonite, Tumi, High Sierra, ebags, and Hartmann, entices customers to purchase the products and to infringe, and the goodwill also entices retailers to sell and to offer for sale the products.

31. Defendant knowingly and specifically intended third parties, including, but not limited to, its consolidated subsidiaries, to infringe at least claim 1 of the '071 Patent. On information and belief, Defendant knew of the '071 Patent, performed affirmative acts that constitute induced infringement, and knew or should have known that those acts would induce actual infringement of one or more of the '071 Patent's claims by third parties. Given the extensive market research that Defendant performs, the similarities between Defendant's Quadrion Bags and the '071 Patent, the similarities between the Quadrion Bags and Plaintiff's competing products that embody the asserted claims of the '071 Patent and are marked with this patent number, and the patent infringement litigation, which was newsworthy and publicized by Bloomberg Law and Law360, between Plaintiff and Defendant's direct competitors Targus International LLC and Wenger S.A. surrounding similar products and involving the Patents-in-Suit, Defendant was aware of Plaintiff's patented technology and continues to sell and offer to sell its infringing products, including through its consolidated subsidiaries, and encourage customers to use the patented features of its bags/luggage.

32. In violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(c), Defendant has infringed (literally and/or under the doctrine of equivalents), at least claim 1 of the '071 Patent indirectly by contributing to the infringement of at least claim 1 of the '071 Patent. Defendant provides, including through its consolidated subsidiaries, its infringing bag and luggage products—a staple article—to (1) U.S.

retailers who, in turn, sell and offer for sale the infringing products; and (2) to U.S. customers who, in turn, use the infringing products.

33. Defendant has contributed to the infringement of at least claim 1 of the '071 Patent because it knew that the Quadrion Bags it offered for sale, which feature a “[b]uilt in USB port [that] lets you power devices on the go” “to keep you charged and stress-free,” “allow[ing] for easy access to personal portable chargers,” were infringing and not suitable for substantial non-infringing use.

34. On information and belief, Defendant had knowledge of the '071 Patent since at least as early as February 2020, when the '071 Patent issued.

35. On information and belief, Defendant, while fully aware that at least the Quadrion Bags infringed one or more of the claims of the '071 Patent, offered for sale, sold, and induced others to buy, use, and sell these infringing products.

36. As a result of Defendant’s infringement of the '071 Patent, Plaintiff has suffered monetary losses for which it is entitled to an award of damages that is adequate to compensate Plaintiff for the infringement under 35 U.S.C. § 284, in no event less than a reasonable royalty.

37. On information and belief, Defendant’s infringement of the '071 Patent has been deliberate, willful, and with full knowledge, or willful blindness to knowledge, of the '071 Patent.

38. Plaintiff has suffered damages in an amount to be determined at trial by reason of Defendant’s willful infringement of the '071 Patent.

39. The Quadrion Bags meet each and every element of at least claim 1 of the '071 Patent. The Quadrion Bags meet the preamble “a bag or luggage for convenient charging, comprising.” The Quadrion Bags are bags for convenient charging, as they include an “integrated USB socket” that “lets you power devices on the go.” Samsonite International claims that this feature keeps a user “charged and stress free.”

40. The Quadriion Bags meet the claim element “a bag or luggage body having a placing space for placing a power storage device inside the bag or luggage body and a power cable outlet on the outer surface of the bag or luggage body.” The Quadriion Bags include a place for placing a power storage device inside the bag and a power cable outlet on the outer surface of the bag body.

41. The Quadriion Bags meet the claim element “a USB extension cable having a male connector and a female connector having four sides and an operative end.” The Quadriion Bags include a USB extension cable with male connector and a female connector having four sides and an operative end.

42. The Quadriion Bags meet the claim element “wherein the male connector of the USB extension cable is inside the bag or luggage body and is used to connect to the power storage device in the placing space.” The male connector of the USB extension cable is inside the Quadriion Bags and is used to connect to the power storage device in the placing space.

43. The Quadriion Bags meet the claim element “wherein the female connector is retained outside and adjacent to the power cable outlet with one side of the four sides of the female connector in communication with the bag or luggage body, and the other three sides of the female connector are covered by a water proof sheath that protects the female connector and provides it in a flat position and wherein the sheath is above and covers the power cable outlet.” The female connector of the Quadriion Bags is retained outside and adjacent to the power cable outlet. Three sides of the female connector are covered by a water proof sheath and provides it in a flat position and is above and covers the power cable outlet. The remaining side is in communication with the bag or luggage body.

44. The Quadrion Bags meet the claim element “wherein the sheath does not cover the operative end of the female connector which is exposed and fixedly attached above the exterior of the bag such that the operative end of the female connector does not need to be moved and the bag or luggage body does not need to be opened to accept a charging interface of a product to be charged.” The operative end of the Quadrion Bags’ female connector is exposed and not covered by the sheath. The operative end of the female connector is fixedly attached to the bag, and as it is on the exterior of the bag, the bag does not need to be opened to accept a charging interface of a product to be charged.

COUNT TWO

47. 52. In violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(c), Defendant has infringed (literally and/or under the doctrine of equivalents), at least claim 23 of the '138 Patent indirectly by contributing to the infringement of at least claim 23 of the '138 Patent. Defendant provides its infringing bag and luggage products—a staple article—to (1) U.S. retailers who, in turn, sell and offer for sale the infringing products; and (2) to U.S. customers who, in turn, use the infringing products.

53. Defendant has contributed to the infringement of at least claim 23 of the '138 Patent because it knew that the Quadrion Bags it offered for sale, which feature a “[b]uilt in USB port [that] lets you power devices on the go” “to keep you charged and stress-free,” “allow[ing] for easy access to personal portable chargers,” were infringing and not suitable for substantial non-infringing use.

54. As a result of Defendant’s infringement of the '138 Patent, Plaintiff has suffered monetary losses for which it is entitled to an award of damages that is adequate to compensate Plaintiff for the infringement under 35 U.S.C. § 284, in no event less than a reasonable royalty.

55. On information and belief, Defendant’s infringement of the '138 Patent has been deliberate, willful, and with full knowledge, or willful blindness to knowledge, of the '138 Patent.

56. Plaintiff has suffered damages in an amount to be determined at trial by reason of Defendant's willful infringement of the '138 Patent.

57. The Quadrion Bags meet each and every element of at least claim 23 of the '138 Patent. The Quadrion Bags meet the preamble "A sheath for convenient charging."
